CONGRESS.

Both Houses of Congress Adjourn the Extra Session.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Congress has finally adjourned, and we see no more of it until December. No one here regrets it except boarding-house keepers and tradesmen. The closing day was entirely without event, except perhaps, the speech of Mr. Windom in the Senate, in which he stated the Republicans' position, and closed the contest, that has lasted nearly four months, for the Republican side. It was a strong, plain, matter-of-fact presentation of the case, and cannot but have an effect upon the thinking men of the country.

At 5 o'clock Speaker Randall and President pro tem Tammam declared the two houses adjourned, each making the customary speech of gratitude for marked attention, etc., etc.

During the afternoon in the Senate there was quite a little interesting debate on the removal of the duty from quinine, and the bill which passed the House Monday was passed and signed by the President. Judge Davis, of Illinois, made a remarkable speech in favor of the measure, holding that if Congress had done nothing else in the four months it had been in session than remove the duty on quinine, the time would have been well spent, for he said it was a matter of the most vital importance in the West and South and other miasmatic regions.

The Democratic desire for economy, of which so much has been heard prior to that party securing a chance at plunder, seems to have faded entirely out, and to-day an attempt was successfully made to give Congressional clerks no retroactive annual salaries of from $3,000 to $5,000 an extra month's pay. These clerks have nothing whatever to do during the Congressional recess but draw their pay, and now, for the first time in the history of Congress, they are given a bonus.

An attempt was made also in the House to secure the payment of a salary to Ike Hill, an Ohio statesman, who does John G. Thompson's running around. It was stated that he had been appointed to an office which did not exist, had faithfully performed duties which could not be described, and hadn't found out that he was not entitled to pay until to-day, when the Ohio Democrats brought the matter to the attention of the House and asked an appropriation of $1,300 to compensate him for his valuable services. The fact is that Ike Hill has been doing political work for Thompson, and was promised a place which he did not get. He threatened to make a fuss and Thompson got the Ohio Democrats to try and secure him a $1,200 lump, under the pretense that he had been employed about the Capitol, but as no one could explain what services he had performed, Hill didn't get his plunder. Congressman Warner, of Ohio, remarked to-day that the failure of the Senate to pass Mr. Vest's resolution in favor of unlimited coinage of silver has lost the Democrats 10,000 votes in Ohio this fall.

U. S. MARSHALS.

How the Ex-Confederates Cripple the Courts.

NEW YORK, July 1.—To-day being the first day of the new fiscal year, there has been considerable discussion in government offices as to the effect of the failure of the marshals bill. Marshal Payn, United States Marshal for this district, says that the failure of Congress to pass the bill will stop all proceedings by the government, both civil and criminal. There is no money to pay for process in any suit. He has as yet taken no action for the reduction of his staff. The business of the office cannot be carried on with one man less than he has. He supposes he has sufficient patriotism to run the office for a few weeks. The civil business of courts between private persons will go on as usual.

The Assistant District Attorney who has charge of the criminal branch of the business of the United States District Attorney's office, says he is afraid that the failure of the bill will hamper the office to a considerable extent. For some time they have been doing business in a very limited way. The last session of the court fell through on account of the exhaustion of the appropriation for running expenses. He has been requested by the Attorney General to make the term as short as possible, and had only disposed of the cases of persons in jail. Should the Marshal feel obliged to discharge his deputies, the court will call to its aid some of the newly appointed internal revenue

A CHASTLY MURDER.

GREEN BAY, July 1.—The town of Glenmore, in this county, about five miles east of this city, is just now in a state of the greatest perturbation over a foul murder committed within its borders within the last day or two. Last evening, missing her presence about her residence, neighbors made search of the premises of the widow Ann Ryan, without success, but the barking of her dog in the woods a few rods adjacent attracting attention, they approached the locality, and there, in a clump of underbrush, found the body of the widow with her throat cut from ear to ear and a bad wound on one side of the face. Further examination conveyed the impression that the deed had been committed on Saturday, and an ax the implement used. There is a diversity of opinion as to the cause or object of the murder, some assigning plunder as the object, and other that she got into an altercation with lawless thieves and they, to prevent her making trouble, put her out of the manner. She was a woman over 60 years of age and lived alone. From the position in which the body was found it is believed more than one person was implicated in the foul proceeding. The authorities are doing all in their power to get at the bottom facts in the case, and if possible bring the guilty to speedy retribution.

BELOIT COLLEGE.

BELOIT, July 1.—The prize declamation this afternoon was participated in by J. Vinton Bascom, of Spring Prairie; E. M. Bergen, of Beloit; R. G. Collins, of Rockford; and Horace F. Fiske, of Anamosa, Iowa, of the freshman class, and Geo. L. Collier, Delavan; R. D. Salisbury, Spring Prairie; C. C. Warner, Freeport, and D. D. Whitelaw, Alloua, Wis., of the sophomore class. The prizes were awarded to Horace Fiske and J. D. Whitelaw. The Stanley scholarship for the highest standing, the past year, in the junior class, was awarded to Frank C. Porter, of Beloit. The Rogers scholarship to R. D. Salisbury, of Spring Prairie, in the sophomore class, and the Thomas scholarship to E. M. Bergen, of Beloit, in the freshman class. To-night, E. G. Valentine, of the class of 1880, delivered the alumni oration, and G. D. Sawyer, secretary of the Alumni Association, read a poem by Rev. Henry Burton, of Henry Bradford England. Tomorrow the degree of D. D. will be conferred on Rev. George Bushnell, of Beloit, a brother of the late Horace Bushnell, and Rev. S. J. Humphrey, of Chicago. At the alumni meeting held to-night Prof. Hendrickson, of 67, was elected president, J. F. Horne, of 76, secretary, D. D. Hill, of Aurora, orator for next year, and Mr. Henry Porter, poet. Efforts are being made to endow the chair of natural science now occupied by Prof. T. C. Chamberlin, State geologist.

DIED FROM EXPOSURE.

RACINE, July 1.—This afternoon, the body of a man was found on the Rapids road, about half a mile west of this city. It proved to be the body of John Dennis, an old man 70 years of age, who has resided here a great many years. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that he came to his death from exposure.

FATAL RUNAWAY.

OSCONOMOC, July 1.—The city was startled this morning by the report that A. McKee had again received severe injuries, the result of a runaway. He is now unconscious. Just a year ago his wife was killed by a runaway team, and himself badly injured, and last spring while in Milwaukee he was thrown from his carriage and severely injured.

FATAL PARSNIPS.

MADISON, July 1.—Two children of Henry Ebrecht, of Morrison, were poisoned by eating wild parsnips last night. One died soon after, and the other is not expected to survive.

Wanted New Testament Treatment.

A tramp applied for food at the house of a suburban agriculturist recently, and while he was eating the ration that had been furnished at his solicitations he was asked: "Why do you not go to work?" I have looked long for a place that would suit me," he replied, "but have never found it." Is there not plenty of work at farming?" asked the interrogator. "Oh, yes," said the tramp, "plenty of it; but you see sir, I want to find a vineyard where a man goes in at the eleventh hour, is the first to come out and to draw a full day's pay. In the olden time they dealt fairly by a man. That is the new testament treatment, and that is what I am looking for." At the close of the meal he started again in pursuit of that coveted agricultural opportunity.—Norwich Bulletin.

A Story of Monaco.

The gambling hell at Monaco returns within a trifle of half a million sterling to its proprietor. The princely revenue will be short this year to the tune of a grand duke of Pompey. One of the most remarkable instances of lucky gambling ever recorded has just set the crowd of the little free city crying the cry of Dominic Saupson. Early in the spring there was rumor of disaster impending over an ancient British baronetcy, which has given heroes, poets, and lawyers to his country. The bar had inherited $1,000,000 of debts, added to a round sum he had raised from the Israelites at accommodation bank interest. When the usurers found their security a shadow, and the mortgages discovered that the successor of the title and estate had begun by dipping the property further, it was resolved to force payment. A noble duke whose name was much mentioned in connection with the Glasgow Bank, generously as much as deterred the civil day. But the smash would have come all the same this very month but for the wonderful stroke of luck which befel the spendthrift partizan at Monaco. He broke the bank three nights running. His last coup made a round $100,000 in addition to the 400,000 captured by him the two nights previous. He had the wit to cut with his winnings, and is now at home negotiating with his creditors.

same time, Dr. Dooley also took a seat in the cabinet along with the Professor. The table was spread, the guests were seated, places were reserved for the bride and groom, plates were laid for them, and an elegant bouquet placed at each place according to the direction of the bride. At was now ready for the appearance of those in whose honor the company had assembled, and the guests waited the appearance of the bride party. But they had not long to wait. The announcement was soon made from the cabinet that the bride was ready. The guests, one after the other were invited up to the apartment, where the lady and her husband were presented, both appearing with perfect distinctness and very life-like, receiving the guests pleasantly, and entering freely into conversation with them. After this, one account says, both spirits walked out of the cabinet across the room, and took the places prepared for them at the table. The bride wore an elegant heavy satin dress, white as the light, with the conventional flowing marriage veil and orange blossoms. The groom wore the regulation black broadcloth and white vest with full-blown rose in the button-hole of the coat--though roses in this vicinity are done blooming. This would seem to prove that in the Summer Land the roses bloom perpetually. After receiving the congratulations of their friends, and narrating the particulars of the marriage--explaining how and where in the spirit world the ceremony was performed--the bride and groom put off the semblance of mortal body and earthly habiliments, which they had donned for the occasion, and betook them to their home in the spirit world, or, purchase, to their celestial wedding tour. Our account of this extraordinary wedding is given from the most reliable reports that have been obtained. We obtain relation to it. Our reporter had an interview with Prof. Mott at the depot Monday evening, as he was leaving the city, and has also conversed with others who were there, and all the main facts narrated above may be relied upon by the reader as absolutely correct. There is considerable hard feeling among the Spiritualists of the city because so few of them were invited to be present on an occasion so much interest, but as we have said above, the whole affair was intended to be strictly private, and we should not have felt at liberty to report it, full of interest as it is, were it not for the fact that hundreds of rumors are afloat in regard to the occurrence, which can only be corrected by a plain statement of the facts--and such we have here endeavored to give.

DISEASES OF THE HEART.
BY V. CLARENCE PRICE, M. D.
The heart is a powerful muscular organ, having four apartments or cavities: its right and left auricle or muscular bag and right and left ventricle or cavity. It is considered the centre of circulation. Of its muscular power we may have some conception when we consider that in man the whole quantity of blood is estimated at about 35 pounds, and that at every pulsation, (which, if regular, is about 72 per minute), an ounce of blood passes through it. Upon this calculation of pounds and ounces of blood, pass through the heart to the lungs every minute of our lives, (this assertion is, however, made on mere conjecture.) It is very certain that all the blood in the body passes through the heart and lungs at least every ten minutes--six times in every hour--and, upon an average, 144 times every twenty-four hours. From our earliest infancy to decrepit and childish old age.

In every piece of mechanical machinery, however simple or complex may be its structure, we find, as indispensable to the whole, at least one great point of attraction or repulsion; so in the human frame we designate the heart, in its simple operations to be the vital organ, which, by its energy and action, gives to every fibre of the frame a principle peculiar to its immediate function. It is the constant spring, or fountain, which, emptying itself into those thousand little streams of the body traverses the whole system and imparts that vigor and animation so indispensable to the maintenance and support of life. This central organ--this sole power--which circulates the blood, is as liable to disease as the other organs of the body. There is no disease to which the human frame is subjected, more intense and violent than a functional affection of the heart; and, indeed, so dreadful are some of the sensations attending it, that a patient laboring under its influence, described it as a dreadful sensation, "approaching to a feeling of annihilation," far surpassing any degree of pain. I am not able here to render a complete analysis of the symptoms in attendance on this complaint, but will mention the more prominent of them that occur in the early stages of the disease.

An oppression and difficulty of breathing often amounting to suffocation or feeling of approaching death. Sometimes a pain is felt over the region of the heart, palpitations, rapid beating or fluttering motion, a feeling of tightness across the chest or distress with short breath, which is increased upon exertion, especially when walking on an ascent or going up a pair of stairs, headache, cold feet and hands, pale face at times, at other times flushed, giddiness, or burning in the ear, faintness, shivering, nose bleedings and numbness. The side over the region of the heart sometimes aches, pale interrupted often stops basting for some seconds, sleep confused and painful, with unpleasant dreams and sudden startings. The patient is restless, easily excited, and when so, often unable to speak, quickly fatigued, anxious and nervous. Palpitations of the heart do not occur in every case, nor all the above symptoms, but more or less are present in every case in the commencement of this disease, becoming more and more dreadful as the disease advances, terminating often when the patient is feeling most well, in sudden death. From the great number of cases that we daily encounter we are fully convinced that diseases of the heart are next in frequency to diseases of the lungs.

The incessant play of the passions, which are capable to a high degree, are calculated to produce many disarrangements in the healthy action of this organ. Whatever tends to overwork the heart, thereby producing interruptions, as a diminution of power, will occasion this disease, as indulgence in intoxicating liquors, long continued use of stimulants, tobacco, unnatural drains upon the system, rheumatism and other long standing ailments, intense study, mental depression, application of the mind to a long and arduous task, great anxiety to be rich, running in debt, working, and fretting, trying to pay interest, causing vexations, trouble and disappointments, &c. In the early period of this affection, remedial agents can be used that will arrest its progress. It is the inability of the heart to circulate blood with that freedom which the animal economy requires, that is the cause of diseases of the heart. And with this view of the subject every means should be used for the purpose of "facilitating the circulation of the blood." When the disease has been long neglected and the heart itself fixedly impeded, a cure is seldom if ever obtained, the disease most invariably has a sudden and fatal termination. The necessity of attending to the first symptoms of a disease so sure in its progress to destroy life, cannot be seen by all. We are pursuing a system of treatment for the cure of all chronic complaints that is of a far different character from that usually entertained--one which cannot fail to relieve the patient to every unpropitious and intelligent individual. We shall make our visits regularly for years and will be for consultation upon all cases of the lungs, throat, heart, nerves, blood, etc., on our next visit, at Janesville, Myers House, on Saturday and Sunday the 26th and 27th of July.

We also invite the Republicans of the State, and all who are in sympathy with the principles and policy of the Republican party, to attend a mass meeting to be held in the Capitol Park, in Madison, at 2 o'clock p. m. on Wednesday, July 23, for the purpose of appropriately celebrating the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the organization of the Republican party in Wisconsin. It is especially desired that as many as possible of those who participated at the meeting in July, 1854, will be present. Distinguished speakers from this and other States will be secured to address the meeting. HORACE RUBLE, Chairman.

R. H. BAKER, CHAS. LUTHER, CHARLES PALMER, G. W. CARTER, E. J. JONES, J. H. POSTER, E. W. WOODMAN, J. B. SELL, J. W. WAGONER, A. A. ANDERSON, E. BOWEN, J. O. RAYMOND, J. R. BISHOP, S. S. VAUGHN, L. F. FRIEST, Republican State Central Committee, Madison, June 18, 1879.

The towns will be entitled to delegates as follows: Fulton, Milton, and Clinton five delegates each; Harmony, Johnston, Lima, Turtle, Porter three each; Bradford and La Prairie two each. By order of Assembly District Committee. W. A. MAYHEW, Chairman.

BRIEFLETS.

The entry books for the county fair are opened at the store of Mr. C. Miner.

Valuable letters at the postoffice for Miss Allie Stoddard, and Roland Curtis.

Letters held for postage: Miss Mamie O'Leary, Milwaukee, Wis.; Wm. Beard, Jonesville, Mich.

Mrs. M. B. Craig, of Nashville, Tennessee, is in the city and is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. H. D. McKinney.

The picnic at Buob's Grove on the Fourth promises to be a successful affair. The attractions will be varied and interesting.

The Rev. Mr. MacLean, of Trinity church, started to-day for Aurora, Indiana, where he will visit during the next four weeks.

Miss Cora Fobes, of Sparta, took her departure for home, this afternoon. She was very effectively seen off at the depot by her many friends and well-wishers.

Mrs. J. W. St. John, Miss Martha Wiley, Mr. D. D. Bennett, Miss Battle, Miss Viata Anderson, and Mr. Ashley, gave a musical at the residence of Mr. J. C. Drown in the town of Fulton last night. Over a hundred persons were present.

A man from the country tried the experiment of taking more whiskey than was good for his senses. He did succeed in getting pretty thoroughly drunk, but it cost him one dollar and costs Justice Prichard imposing the fine.

Governor Smith and wife will arrive in the city at 1:45 to-morrow, and will be the guests of Hon. H. Richardson. There he will meet his friends in the evening, take in the county fair on Friday, and on Saturday morning will start for Freeport.

Miss Lizzie Blinn, who has been a very successful music teacher in the Institution for the Blind during the past four years, has gone to Ohio to visit her parents. For further particulars of interest, our readers must wait three or four weeks.

Messrs. Smith & Harris have secured the services of an experienced fisher and bronzer, of Connecticut. He will be here about the 15th of July. By the way, this growing firm have recently established an agency for their safety lamp at New York city, and Louisville.

M. C. Smith & Son, who deal upon the square, and always keep a large stock of goods, make a special announcement for the summer which will interest everybody who wants choice clothing, and excellent furnishing goods at low cash prices. A visit to their store makes a good investment.

The readings by Misses Holdredge and Guernsey takes place to-night at Lippin's Hall. Reserved seats for sale at Wall King's. There are several reasons why the public should attend this entertainment, but the most selfish one is that every one who goes will get twice the value of his money; and then again the young ladies have decided ability, and should be honored with a full house.

The gathering of the members and the friends of the Congregational church last evening, at the residence Mr. Edward Tallman, was a very pleasant affair in all respects. There were about one hundred and fifty persons present. There was a constant flow of geniality, an abundant supply of ice cream and cake, and a happy time generally. During the evening, Miss Minnie Holdredge, at the request of her many friends, gave a reading which was much appreciated and enjoyed.

A stranger came to the city yesterday and took lodging in Dr. Finch's stable, taking to his bed of hay and straw about four o'clock in the afternoon. He slept soundly until this morning, when he woke up, and says he found himself minus six dollars. He claims that his pocket book was taken from him while he was slumbering, and rifled of its contents. He suspected a man named Sandy, and accordingly Sandy was arrested, and taken before Justice Prichard, but there was no proof at all that he stole any money from any one, and was discharged.

WEATHER.

The thermometer this morning at seven o'clock stood 70 degrees above zero; and at one o'clock 90 degrees above. Partly cloudy. For the corresponding time last year, the thermometer indicated 68 and 76 degrees above, and was clear.

The indications for the upper lake region are stationary or rising barometer, southerly winds, slightly warmer, clear, or cloudy weather, possibly followed by cooler westerly winds in Northwest.

THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Last evening the Knights of Pythias installed their officers for the ensuing term, the roll being as follows:

C. C. W. F. Tinsley.
V. C. B. Smith.
P. A. C. Bloom.
K. R. S. E. B. Heimstreet.
M. F. J. A. Sutherland.
M. E. C. S. Jackman.
M. A. J. McLean.
I. G. Chas. Atwood.
O. G. B. H. Baldwin.

Oriental Lodge No. 22, enjoys an excellent record. It was instituted on the 23rd of March, 1878, with twenty-six members. At that time, as a matter of course, it had no lodge room, and no money, the receipts from the charter members being required to pay the expense of organizing the lodge. Like all good societies that are well managed, it began to prosper, and it was not long before it removed from a hall with no adornments or furniture or other conveniences, to one of the best furnished halls in the State. All this has been paid for, and besides this, there is a surplus to the treasury. Elegant Brussels carpets cover the floors, rich gold gilt paper adorn the walls, and attractive and expensive furniture beautifies the hall. The members are also well uniformed, and challenge the State on a parade. There are now 63 full members, and several others are ready to become the disciples of Damon and Pythias.

THE SACK COMPANY.

A regular meeting of the Janesville Sack Company was held last night when Mr. M. C. Smith, one of the charter members of the company, resigned. He now considers the resignation a little premature, for had he remained a member eight months longer, he would have had the honor of being a member of that company one quarter of a century. The company was organized on the 17th day of March, 1855, with twenty members. Up to this date there have been sixty-two members, and the resignation of Mr. Smith leaves but one charter member on the books—Mr. R. J. Richardson. Four members have died, and thirty-nine have resigned. Mr. G. A. Libbey was elected assistant foreman last evening, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Major C. W. Baker. Colonel Britton has been treasurer four years and a half, and Mr. E. B. Heimstreet has been secretary the same length of time. The present officers are:

Foreman—L. E. Carle.
Assistant Foreman—G. A. Libbey.
Treasurer—W. B. Britton.
Secretary—E. B. Heimstreet.

The Sack Company acts as a special fire police, and takes charge of personal property at fires, and during its twenty-four years of existence has done mainly service in that direction.

AN IMPORTANT NOTICE.

On Decoration Day a committee was appointed consisting of Mayor Cobb, Congressman Williams, and Mr. J. K. Pease, to confer with the Quartermaster General of the United States Army in relation to procuring suitable headstones to mark the graves of soldiers buried in the cemeteries in this city. That committee now publish this card:

The United States Government now furnishes headstones at all "Unmarked Graves of Union Soldiers and Sailors," whether they died in service or since their muster out or discharge. A list is being prepared of such graves in the Oak Hill and the Catholic cemeteries of this city. All persons knowing of such graves, will please give notice thereof to any one of the committee. The name and age of the deceased, and the regiment and company in which he served, should be stated.

S. C. COBB,
C. G. WILLIAMS,
J. J. R. PEASE,
Committee.

It has been suggested by a person whose judgment is entitled to respect, that it would be a proper thing to purchase a lot to which all soldiers should be removed who are now buried in the public grounds. Such a lot could be purchased with money raised by subscription, and it could be raised on short notice.

THE SWIMMERS' STORY.

The cases of the Shoppe boys charged with indecent exposure of person have been adjudged until next Tuesday. Three of the boys have been arrested, and the rest have kept out of the way, but their friends think they will deliver themselves up in a few days. The captured boys deny the charges against them except that they were swimming in a secluded place. Their side of the story is that the ladies were thirty rods away, and that the man came down to the swimming place and threatened them, and that they then talked back. They deny that they chased up the party carriage, and assert that it was hitched in the woods some distance away. They will have a chance to tell their story in full next Tuesday.

I. O. O. F.

Last evening the Janesville City Lodge, No. 99, I. O. O. F., installed its officers, the following being the list:

L. S. V. G.—George Crouse.

A BAD DIAMOND.

Richard Diamond, who has been in the city for some time doing jobs of painting, has again fallen into the clutches of the law. This time he is charged with burglary, being suspected of having stolen a pistol from Mr. John Spong, as well as a good supply of cigars. The fact that Diamond had possession of a pistol which belonged to Spong, and that he was seen, coming out of Spong's in a very suspicious manner, seem to point to his guilt. However, this is for the Court to determine. He was arrested, taken before Justice Prichard, and his examination set for next Monday. Diamond has made quite a history already in a criminal way, having, it is said, graduated from the State Prison, where he served about two years. He now reposes in jail waiting the result of his examination.

THE FOURTH AND THE FAIR.

The Fair which opens to-morrow promises to be of unusual interest in some respects, and will doubtless draw together a large number of people. There is something of special interest to make each day attractive, but of course the Fourth will be the gala day. Governor Smith will be present and deliver an address, and Congressman Williams will also do some talking. The display of military will be very fine, and considerable interest will be taken in the prize drill in which several companies will take part, among those expected to participate being the Oshkosh Guards under command of Gabe Bouck, the LaCrosse Rifles and the Janesville Guards. There will be several bands of music, the dancing hall will be open to all without extra charge, there will be games and field sports, and many other features of amusement besides the display of articles on exhibition. It is expected that this display will be large and varied. With such numerous attractions there is no doubt but that the Fair Grounds will be thronged. All will want to hear the speakers of the day, and comfortable seats are provided for that purpose. There will also be a grand picnic dinner, a very large canopy having been made sufficient to shelter many hundreds of people. In fact there will be nothing left lacking to make everybody happy, and a better chance cannot be offered of celebrating the Fourth, and at the same time attending one of the best fairs ever held in Rock county. It is expected that there will be a rush, but there's room for all, and arrangements have been made on a mammoth scale so that however great the crowd all may be comfortably cared for.

TIED FOR LIFE.

BROWN-HENDERSON.

A quiet but happy matrimonial event took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Scarcliff on Monday evening, it being the union of Mr. Charles T. Brown, of Michigan, with Miss Emma A. Henderson, a sister of Mrs. Scarcliff. Rev. Mr. Chapell, of the Baptist church, performed the ceremony, which was brief but impressive, and at its close the friends extended their well wishes and congratulations, which were indeed heart-felt. A large number of beautiful gifts still further expressed the feelings of family and friends. The gathering was composed only of relatives and intimate friends, and the occasion was a truly enjoyable one. A suitable repast was spread, and after this had been partaken of the company dispersed, Mr. and Mrs. Brown going to their new home, accompanied by the best wishes of many friends here. Miss Henderson has been long a resident of this city, and is a young lady of accomplishment and true merit, and he who has won her is deemed to be in all ways worthy of the prize.

MILTON COLLEGE.

The Annual Commencement—The Order of Exercises—The Various Orators—The Baccalaureate Sermon—The Exercises of the Iduna Society.

To-day did not open very propitiously for the commencement exercises at Milton College, the skies being lowering and the weather threatening, but an occasional gleam of sunlight gave sufficiently promise of a clear day to induce a goodly number of the friends of the institution together on the campus, where a leafy canopy had been provided and seats arranged for 1100, most of which were filled.

Upon the platform were seated the acting President, Prof. Albert Whitford, the members of the Faculty, the Board of Trustees, the graduating class, and several prominent. Among them were: Rev. N. Warden, D. D., Rev. Wm. Walker, Rev. M. H. Babcock, of Albion, Rev. G. M. Cottrell, of Dodge Center, Minnesota, Rev. A. L. P. Loomis, Prof. H. D. Kinney, '78, of Wemotow, Prof. J. ## THE BACCALAUREATE SERMON.

The Baccalaureate sermon was delivered Tuesday night, by Rev. E. M. Dunn, who chose his text, Deut. VI:32.

The thought of the sermon was the importance of being guided by principle rather than led by impulse and feeling. The following is a brief extract: We are very apt to be creatures of impulse. It would be very pleasant to associate with persons who always act from impulse, if their impulse always led them in the right direction; but this is rarely if ever the case. Our feelings are not a correct guide; they vary with circumstances. It is hardly twice that we feel principle alive. Firm adherence to principle, and our own best interests are identical. God has linked together wrong doing and failure—right doing and success. By the word, success, the speaker meant success in the true sense of the term. The whole life here and hereafter is to be taken into account. This was illustrated by reference to the lives of noted politicians and wealthy men. Again, the speaker said that principle developed mainly and christian virtue. Man is a bundle of habits. There are habits of the soul, as well as of the body. Nothing weakens the citadel of manly and christian virtue like the habit of acting from impulse and feeling; and nothing strengthens the foundations of virtue like the habit of acting from principle. He who adheres to principle has the approval of conscience. The man who adheres to principle has the approval of his God. We all like the approval of good men. We care not for the disapprobation of bad men. We like the approval of persons possessed of wisdom. Parmenides was at one time reading a philosophical discourse before a public assembly at Athens, and upon observing that, excepting Plato, the whole company had left him, notwithstanding his efforts to read on, and said that Plato, alone, was a sufficient audience for him. So, in acting from principle, we shall have the approval of God, and with that we should be able to say, "It is enough." Again, the difficulties of standing up for principle lie at the threshold of the journey; when they are overcome the way is easy. We see the reverse of what men depart from principle. They have their easy times at the threshold, but afterward comes their sorrow. Men of principle are the influential and valuable men in the church. This was illustrated variously.

The discourse was entirely practical, and its simple but important truths just adapted to the young men coming upon the active duties of life.

THE EXERCISES.

The salutatory in Latin was given by James Nelson Humphrey, of Emerald Grove, who spoke clearly, and made the salutatory as much appreciated by the audience as possible, considering that most of his hearers understood little the meaning of the Latin words thus hurled at them.

One Life Measured by the End we Seek—Minnie Douglas, Rock Prairie.

Everything in point of dignity and elevation is measured by the end it seeks. Its aims give it a character, and fashion it after their own images. Nothing can make that great aim as to what is the end of the human nature is imparted to that which seeks a divine end. In every age a large portion have sacrificed to the cruel idols of the world their usefulness, self-respect and mental peace. Many of the present time are fostering the anchor of their hope in the sinking sands of time, instead of placing it in the rock of eternity. It is surprising to see so many creatures, little rays of light glimmering through a few feeble organs, contrived a point with the Supreme Being. Were the least of all the just men made perfect to come down and catechize a synod of the greatest devils on earth, how soon would he puzzle them. We are ever seeking to grasp those things which are incapable of being grasped. Let us please. Let the Christian feel that he can never reach the height of complete exaltation; but by placing Christ continually before him, he estimates the difference between himself and his ideal, and presses forward. A higher end than the glory of God we could not propose, and a lower we should never seek.

The qualification of an Orator a Requisite for Success in Professional Life.—H. A. Bemis.

The qualifications necessary to success in oratory are many and varied. Our ideal orator should be healthy, vigorous, and let him have clear perception, logic, power of statement, and a brilliant imagination. Let him drink deep draughts from the fountains of nature, and delight in her beauties. Let his heart throb with the love of his fellow beings, and delight to do good in the world. Let him possess an indomitable will—that quality of mind so rarely found in connection with those other powers that captivate mankind. And so, having in complete subjection his own appetites and passions, he may expect to control in some measure the affairs of men.

Stepping Stones.—M. Ade's Whitford, Utica.

As continual dropping wears away the stone, so does the continued exertion of man achieve wonders. This is not a world of chance. There is an invisible architect, who has been for years moulding and perfecting his plan. As nature begins at the lowest round and builds up step by step, so we must conform to her laws. This gradual progress is often tedious. Many are so eager that we would like to leap over the rudimentary steps. The surer our footing the surer our progress. Each well learned lesson is a stepping stone toward a good education. As a rolling stone gathers no moss, so scholars often kick over the surface, gaining no measure, understanding the ground gone over. As a little acorn grows into the oak, so does the intellect of a child develop. The more gradual its growth, the greater its strength. Spare moments, the odds and ends of time, spent in self culture, are a sure means of progress. Elihu Burritt, attributing his first success, to this; while working as a blacksmith, he, in the intervals of leisure, mastering eighteen ancient and modern languages, besides twenty-two European dialects. Sir Isaac Newton is said to have remarked that what distinguished him from other men, was patient application. In the building up of fortune the beginnings are necessarily small. There is no sudden leap to any real success. John Jacob Astor once said applying to the student of law, "Honesty, industry and frugality are stepping stones toward wealth. From a moral standpoint, life may be considered a long stairway which reaches from a region of perpetual sunshine to a yawning abyss of frightful gloom. We are slowly but surely journeying, either to the haven above or to the gulf below. Either goal is out of sight, and we have but a faint gleam of the reward waiting at the top of the stairway, but by gradual and wearying exertions, while we need not put forth little effort to make the descent. The little things make up the sum of human life. We note our existence by stepping stones, and when the last landmark has been passed, the last step taken, may we look back and rejoice that we have not slipped and fallen by the wayside.

Robert Burns—James Miller, Rock Prairie.

As a poet, Burns stands in the front rank. His many integrity of character and true heart, elevated him as much as the natural force and beauty of his poetry. At an early age he manifested a great desire for learning. Burns said of himself, "I was a poor man more ardently than mine to be distinguished." He was a man of genius, a true poet with delicate emotions and lofty aspirations. His genius embraced all living and lifeless things, with a sympathy that finds nothing mean and insignificant.

—Full of pity for the shelterless poor and the helpless birds, he reflects that the bitter blast is no unkind as man's ingratitude. Burns possessed the highest poetical qualities, the most delicate perception of natural beauty. The variety of his poetic talent is best displayed in Tam O'Shanter. It is considered by almost every critic, as well as Burns himself, to be his masterpiece. There has never been a nobler tribute paid to the virtues of a poor man than the Cotter's Saturday Night, which is the best of Burns' poetry. The life was too brief for the full maturity and development of his talents. Short and painful as were his years, he has left behind him a volume in which there is inspiration for every fancy, and music for every mood—a volume which lives, and will live.

Luther and Loyola—M. J. Haven, Milton.

Prominent among the men of the sixteenth century were Martin Luther and Ignatius Loyola, men whom the finger of history marks as worthy of the world's respect. They were heroes; not like the fanciful personages of mediæval romance, but real men in reality. Luther being the great reformer whose belief and purposes were directly opposed to the order of Jesuits, which Loyola founded. The theory of the former was to give to individuals the liberty of private judgment; while that of the latter was to have an order consisting of a few, the ruling power of the masses. Luther was full of massive energy; he was a whirlpool of power that was eddying the powers of darkness, and the great reformer whose belief and purposes were directly opposed to the order of Jesuits, which Loyola founded.
